SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

17 PARTNERSHIPS FOR THE GOALS

Recognizing the importance of collaboration, SGT University engages in partnerships with national and international institutions to drive sustainable development. The university collaborates with industries, NGOs, and academic institutions to enhance research, share knowledge, and implement sustainable practices. SGT hosts conferences and workshops that bring together experts from various fields to address global challenges. Through joint research projects and student exchange programs, the university contributes to achieving SDG 17 by fostering global partnerships that support sustainable growth. By leveraging these collaborations, SGT enhances its capacity to contribute to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

About: The UnBox Toolkit, created by SoC Education LLP, promotes "Self-Directed Learning" for children aged 3-10 by fostering creativity and problem-solving through art-based activities called कला-कसरत. In a study in Jammu, 115 students in the intervention group participated in 12 structured exercises, with their learning levels compared to a control group of 49 students. The results showed a significant improvement in inquisitiveness, analysis, and innovation skills among the intervention group, with strong examiner consensus and statistically significant gains, indicating the toolkit's positive impact on learning outcomes. A study in schools of Jammu and Kashmir UnBox.
